

Killer shark eaten by victim's family

Morgan family had four members. Father Mike, mother Melisa and two sons, Michael and Moris. After Christmas they decided to go on holiday. Morgans was a nice family and they chose Australia as their holiday destination.

Mike grew up in the harbour near the town of Holymitt and he was keen on diving. So he packed his diving equipment and the whole family travelled to Australia.

In Australia this story began to be more interesting. Mike was diving all day and his wife and children were alone. They started to quarrel but the next day everything was ok and the whole family rent a boat. They were going far away. Mike started to dive and the other family members were gazing at him. Suddenly the youngest son Moris saw a shark. Unfortunately he couldn't speak and nobody recognised it. It was too late... The shark bit Mike's head off. Nobody could help him. He died. Although Moris couldn't speak, he took a harpoon and shot the killer shark. They fished it out.

The survivors of dead Mike wanted to take a revenge. They took the shark to the nearest restaurant and there the shark was cooked. The only thing which Morgan kept was the shark's killer tooth.